

I feel all fees and charges that telephone companies charge (other than taxes) should be included in their advertised rates.

I understand some of these fees are either regulated, required or allowed by the FCC. However, the price actually paid by the consumer should be what is advertised by telephone companies. The current practices are quite deceiving.

My wireless bill is nearly 50% higher than the advertised amount, mainly due to these fees.